

---

Name : Dr. Dnyaneshwar Shelke.

Qualifications : PGDEMS , M.Sc. Health Services Management, London
South Bank University, London, UK .

Designations :

Chief Operations Officer for Maharashtra Emergency Medical Services at BVG India Ltd.

Was Head Operations [COO] for EMS in the state of Goa for GVK EMRI .

Contribution in Development of EMS in India:

Dr. Dnyaneshwar Shelke is Chief Operating Officer at BVG India Ltd. for the Maharashtra Emergency Medical Services (MEMS). Before coming to MEMS in year 2012, he was Head of Operations of the EMS for Goa state for GVK EMRI. He has also contributed as Program Director- Post Graduate Program in Emergency Care (Stanford University, USA- EMRI initiative) at Hyderabad, India. Prior to year 2004, he has worked with Deenanath Mangeshkar Hospital, Hardikar Trauma Hospital, Pune as Emergency Medical Service Officer in emergency Department and Intensive Care Unit.

Dr. Shelke is Adjunct Faculty at Symbiosis Institute of Health Sciences, Symbiosis International University and Visiting faculty at IIHMR, Bangalore. He holds the Master's Degree in health Services Management from London South Bank University, London, UK. He also holds a Certificate of Global Business Leadership certification, from Harvard Publishing, SSL and U 21 Global University, Singapore. He has attended an International Visiting Scholar program in Emergency Medicine at Stanford School of Medicine, Stanford University, USA.

His volunteer contribution includes, as the Regional Faculty for Asia Pacific Region on behalf of American Heart Association, USA since year 2007 and as member of Global Development Committee for International Trauma Life Support (ITLS) Organisation, USA from 2010 onwards.

Anything you would like to say to Dr. Rajhans:

“Dr. Rajhans is my mentor, philosopher and guide. He is guru to many of the EMS leaders in the country. I have no hesitation in saying he is the pioneer of EMS in India . “